1. With - out blood is no re - mis - sion, Life for life the sent - ence is;
2. He can deal with it as one who No su - per - ior owns, or has;
3. But will He whose voice is thun - der, And whose bolt the light - 'ning is,
4. See thou One, who, more than oth - ers, Seems to know what sor - row is;

Par - don comes on this con - di - tion, Trem - ble we when hear - ing this:
This be - longs to Him a - lone, who Fills the throne that ev - er was,
Whom the an - gels view with won - der, Maj - es - ty and glo - ry his;
Love is His be - yond a broth - er's; Grace, and pow'r and truth are his,

Make Him known the sac ri fice; Say ye, is his life His own?
And for ev - er will re - main, His an ev - er - last - ing reign.
He will do what He a - lone A - ble is, else we're un - done.
Yet He comes, and dwells with men, Dies, and takes His life a - gain.

5. Could a man redeem another?
None whose life was not his own.
How could one redeem his brother?
Could he for his sin atone?
Were his life a gift bestowed,
He could give but what he owed.

6. But the Lord who comes from heaven,
Is the Holy One of God;
Life is His—His own—not given,
Hence the value of His blood,
Hence He could atone for sin,
Hence impart new life within.

7. Sing we then, it well befits us,
'Tis a sweet, a blessed theme;
Wonder upon wonder meets us,
Tracing God's all glorious plan;
Sing of Him who came to save,
Who His life for sinners gave.
